Dear Marcia,

You have done a truly important piece of work – Corky continues to do an excellent job of representing equity in trades etc. at the cabinet table.

Love,

Penny [Priddy] [British Columbia Minister of Women's Equality]

(September 1997 – in regards to the massive provincial lobbying effort for changes to the Industrial Training and Apprenticeship Act. We achieved all that we asked except a seat at the table, which ultimately brought it all to very little. Without a seat at the table, no one was watching and acting to ensure “the increased participation of women and other designated groups” in apprenticeship, even when it was written into the legislation. The person they hired as the “Equity Advisor” was ineffective in playing that role, and there was no advocate at the Commission table to direct her.)
